RED LION GOLD ORE

A Meeting of the Company Will Be Held This Afternoon.

AN EXPERT'S SUGGESTION

How He Would Treat the Ore of This District By Electricity and Chlorination - It Means Much to Anaconda.

A meeting of the Red Lion Mining company is to be held this afternoon at the office of Fitzpatrick & Strickland in this city. The object of the meeting will be to consider plans for the summer's work. The company is in good shape, though no work has been done lately. It has no debts and has money in the treasury. The mine is equipped with hoist and machinery and a 10-stamp mill for crushing the product of the mine.

The problem which confronts this company is one which concerns the destinies of almost every mine in that district and involves the successful treatment of the ore, of which there is an abundance. Efforts to save the gold have, for the most part, been unsatisfactory. Even with ore giving the most favorable assays, the fine flake gold would not stick to the plates and was lost in the tailings.

A proposition which will be considered to-day is for a new method of treatment which is advised by a gentleman who is one of the best posted experts in the United States on the handling of refractory ore. His plan is based upon the proposition that the ore above the water line is partly base and partly free milling. This may, therefore, be handled by the usual amalgamation process, but for the base ore from below the water line he would change the system entirely, treating the ore by the electrolytic chlorination process.

This is new in the handling of gold ore, but is in successful use in the gold mines of the Caucasus mountains in Russia and in the African gold fields, where, in sections, the ore is similar in character to that of the Red Lion.

The new process consists of reducing the ore to pulp by the usual stamps, from which it is conveyed to tanks containing about ten inches of mercury. The pulp is to be forced through the mercury, to which much of the gold will adhere. The pulp which is carried away to the other tanks is then to be concentrated by means of powerful electric currents, which precipitate the gold to the bottom in a slimy like residue. The expert calculates that he can save 90 per cent. of the gold by this treatment and thinks it can be done without heavy expense by adding machinery to the present plant. The test will not be expensive. It is thought $500 will cover the entire cost. In some cases the well known cyanide process is more applicable than the electrolytic chlorination, but that depends upon the composition of the ore largely and from what is known of that in this district, the latter is believed to be the best.

The matter will be laid before the Red Lion trustees at any rate for their consideration.

The one thing needed for the gold ore adjacent to this city is some method to save the gold, and it can be but a question of a short time, with the present achievement of chemistry, till the problem is solved. It is of vast importance to Anaconda, and when that day comes, it will be one of the factors which will make certain the future of this city as the metropolis and center of Montana and perhaps of the Northwest.

The progress of this test or any other experiment along this line is of great interest to all who wish well to Anaconda.

CALLER AGAIN.

Elder Barnaby Will Remain Another Year in Anaconda.

The Christian church of this city, on Sunday evening last, while in business convention assembled, reengaged Elder George E. Barnaby as pastor of the church for another year. This action on the part of the church indicates that Elder Barnaby has gained the confidence of the people both in and out of the church, and that he merits this call. Elder Barnaby has a host of admirers outside of the people known as the Disciples of Christ, who will be pleased to learn of his good fortune. Under his management during the past two years the church has prospered in a spiritual sense until the presence and work of this people as a factor for good in this community is fully acknowledged.

GAME ARRANGED.

The Phillipsburgers to Meet the Anacondas Next Sunday.

Next Sunday the Anacondas will meet the Phillipsburg team on the baseball diamond. The game will be a hot one and will be worth seeing. The members of the Anaconda team are requested to practice as much as possible between now and Sunday. Those of the players who are on night duty are asked to be at the park at 3 or 3:30 o'clock each day.

Phillipsburg will send over a team which will give the home team all they care to handle. On Sunday, June 14, a game with the Buttes will be played.

The Minstrels To-Morrow Night.

Every season since its organization the Primrose & West minstrel company has visited this city and found always substantial welcome. Their repeated success is owing to the fact of the united excellence of their organization, the artistic merit of each performer, the refinement of their entertainment, the novelty and pleasing attractiveness of their introductions, and, whether vocal or instrumental, the superiority of their music.

Another potent factor of their success and reason of recurring welcome lay in the fact that their announcements were always realized by the expectant public, whose confidence they have thus won and retained. Their entertainment this season is said to be specially attractive in sweet songs, introductions, original and entertaining. The organization of whites and blacks, headed by Primrose & West, is said to be the greatest aggregation ever gotten together. They include the highest minstrel talent available, comedians, musicians, vocalists and specialty artists, and will appear Thursday night at Evans' opera house.

Baseball in the West.

The glass-armed toy soldiers of this town were fed to the pigs yesterday by the cadaverous Indian grave-robbers from Omaha. The flabby, one-lunged Reubens who represent the Gem City in the reckless dash for the baseball pennant had their shins toasted by the basilisk-eyed cattle drivers from the West. They stood around with gaping eyeballs like a hen on a hot nail and suffered the grisly yaps of Omaha to run the bases until their necks were long with thirst. Hickey had more errors than Cohn's Financial School and led the rheumatic procession to the morgue. The Quincys were full of straw and scrap iron. They couldn't hit a brick wagon with a pickaxe, and ran bases like pall bearers at a funeral. If three-base hits were growing on the back of every man's neck they couldn't reach 'em with a feather duster. It looked as if the Amalgamated Union of South American Hoodlums was in session for work in the thirty-third degree. The geesees stood about and whistled for help, and were so weak they couldn't lift a glass of beer if it had been all foam. Everything was yellow, rocky and whangbasted, like a stigmatized full of doglegammon. The game was whiskered and frost-bitten. The Omahogs were bad enough, but the Quincy Brown Sox had their fins sewed up until they couldn't hold a crazy quilt unless it was tied around their necks. -Quincy Herald.

Immigrants Pouring In.

The arrival of 1,200 steerage passengers at this port in a single day is an evidence that, in spite of much complaint of hard times, the workingman is better off in this country than elsewhere. Certainly he must be much better off than in the countries which are sending us these large consignments of immigrants. The immigrant never seeks calamity; he invariably flees from it. -New York World.

The Man, Not the Principle.

McKinley should not heed the demands of certain members of his party to open his mouth and reveal his views unless he likes. So far as the managers are concerned they will endorse the financial opinions of the nominee whether they be in favor of gold or silver, one at a time, both or neither. -Cedar Rapids Gazette.

Wants to Be Accommodated.

Lafayette Journal: Candidate McKinley is prepared to conform himself to the St. Louis platform, thereby equaling the backwoods school teacher who was willing to teach that the earth was round or square, just as the directors would have it.

The Modern Way.

Does Your Heart Jump?

WHEN YOU LAY IN BED AT NIGHT TRYING to sleep can you feel your heart skip a beat-stop for a second and then seem to jump to catch up with the time lost? That is one of the symptoms of nervous debility, also of indigestion. It means that you need something to build up your vital or nerve force. Electricity is the greatest known aid to the nerves. Dr. Sanden's Electric Belt is acknowledged by physicians as the best electric treatment for weak men and women.

A Berkeley Lady Cured.

West Berkeley, Cal., April 20, 1896. DR. A. T. SANDEN: Dear Sir: Before I began to use your Electric Belt I had been doctoring for years for the complaint so many women are troubled with. I could not sleep at night, as my heart would beat so that I would almost choke for want of breath. The doctors thought I had asthma and consumption. I was very low. I got relief from your Belt in a week, and have continued growing stronger every day. I am now able to do about as much house work, and am very grateful to you and your Electric Belt. Yours very truly, MRS. MARY JONES. By Thomas Jones, shoe cutter, Rosenthal, Feder & Co., 581 Market street, San Francisco.
